

Is the vision of the draft Plan one in which you can share?:

No.

In the light of your response to the above question, are the proposed sectoral projects essential to the meeting of the action area aims for 2012? If not, why not?:

I consider Gaelic to be a moribund language of only niche interest and use.

Are the outcomes for the twenty themes and the priorities for tackling them correctly outlined and prioritised? If not, why not?:

In the light of your response to the above question, what projects do you view as being essential to implementing these priorities (some examples are offered in Appendix I)?:

And are the right organisations identified as being the primary players in implementing these priorities?:

If you are responding on behalf of an organisation, how do you see yourselves contributing to the success of the National Plan?:

Do you have any other comments on the draft National Plan which you would like to submit?:

I realise this isn't a response you welcome, but many of my recent ancestor's only language was Gaelic and, like them, I've lived my entire life in Scotland so my opinion is valid.

Me and my contemporaries who don't value Gaelic are never made aware or asked to participate in gaelic related consultations so I thought I should make take the time to respond to say that no, the vision of more Gaelic in Scotland is not one that is shared by every Scot.

I agree for my views to be made public: ON (name & address withheld)
